Update:02_13_2023 Revised Music selection – removal of 2 pieces for revised concert schedule

We have decided to do something different this year. As we know that all choirs are continually adjusting, providing some flexibility in the repertoire will hopefully be helpful. You will notice we have not broken out into coppers and tins divisions. We have just provided a list of music that directors can choose from depending on what will work best for them and their choirs.

Though a choir can choose to participate in all the music, we do not recommend this, as there will be no or little down time for the ringers on the day of the festival(some may be ok with that). We are not expecting all choirs to learn all the music. We do expect that all choirs will learn a majority of the music, aim for 5, in hopes that we have good number of groups playing each piece.

We will ask on the registration form which pieces each group will be ringing so we can work together to adjust the rehearsal schedule and floor space.
